DMV, Donate Life California Registry Team Up to Save Lives

5,000 DMV CUSTOMERS PER DAY SIGNING UP TO DONATE LIFE

With 20,000 people in need of life-saving transplants in California alone, DMV and Donate Life California have teamed up with a new challenge for the state's drivers: sign up to become organ and tissue donors. One-third of the 93,000 Americans currently waiting for life-saving organ transplants could die due to a lack of donors. But effective July 1, Californians can help change that. Anyone who checks Yes! when applying for or renewing a driver license or I.D. card will be listed on the state's registry as a donor, with the potential to save eight lives and enhance the lives of up to 50 others.

www.doneVIDAcalifornia.org

Approximately 300,000 Californians had signed up online in the sixteen months since the April 2005 launch of the registry website. In the eighteen weeks since the July 1 DMV partnership, the influx of DMV signups has pushed the Donate Life California Registry past the 800,000 mark. Thanks to the DMV, approximately 5,000 people per day are signing up with Donate Life California an exponential increase compared

Frankie Hernandez

BY ERICA RANGEL-B E Z

Frankie was born on September 19, 1995. He was my firstborn. Although he was premature at 36 weeks, Frankie was ready for the world. He was speaking before he was walking. He was potty trained and catching the ball before he turned two years old. He was growing tall and strong - just too fast for my eyes.

At the age of three Frankie played his first baseball game, T-ball. He was a natural running around the bases (the opposite way), fighting for the ball in the outfield - knowing the fundamentals of baseball but forgetting them as soon as he stepped onto the field. Those were very special moments. That, of course, didn't last too long. Shortly he became more experienced and knowledgeable of the sport and entered a new, more competitive level. That wowed me and so many.

Donate Life America Launches 'Donor Designation Collaborative' to Propel State Donor Registry Signups

NATIONAL INITIATIVE SEEKS TO INCREASE DONOR DESIGNATIONS TO 100 MILLION BY APRIL 2008

It is not just about the numbers - it is about who and what the numbers represent: lives hanging in the balance, and people who bring them hope. With the number of people waiting for a life-saving organ transplant quickly approaching 100,000, and the population of the United States eclipsing the 300 million mark, Donate Life America, a national not-for-profit organization dedicated to saving lives by inspiring people to be organ, eye and tissue donors, has launched a unified national effort to increase the number of Americans registered to be donors in their states to 100 million.

Donor Designation Collaborative

This effort, the Donor Designation Collaborative, promises to significantly increase donor designations nationwide. It is also an important step for those awaiting life-saving organ transplants or life-enhancing cornea or tissue transplants, with statistics showing significant increases in organ, eye and tissue donation in states with effective donor registries.

This is an extraordinary opportunity to save thousands more lives each year, said David Bosch, president of Donate Life America and director of communications and hospital development for Gift of Hope Organ & Tissue Donor Network, the non-profit, federally designated organ and tissue recovery agency serving Illinois. We currently estimate that only 20 percent of US residents have formally registered as organ donors in their state,

HHS Honors 23 Southland Hospitals for Achieving Area's Highest Organ Donation Rates in 2004-2006

The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) honored a record 23 area hospitals for excellence in organ donation at October's National Learning Congress in New Orleans. The HHS Medal of Honor was awarded to hospitals with at least eight eligible organ donors that achieved a donation rate of at least 75% for any consecutive 12-month period between May 2004 and June 2006.

The awards, which are presented in concert with OneLegacy, reflect the success of the National Organ Donation Breakthrough Collaborative, an HHS initiative launched in 2003 to save and enhance thousands of lives annually by spreading best organ donation practices to the nation's largest hospitals. The national initiative provides hospitals and organ procurement organizations with the tools and processes needed to dramatically increase organ and tissue donation rates. In the Los Angeles metropolitan area, organ donation is up 34% from September 2003, when the Organ

Deceased donation has increased 18% in the first nine months of this year

Donation Breakthrough Collaborative first began.

Because of the Organ Donation & Transplantation Breakthrough Collaborative and efforts to improve organ donation rates throughout Southern California and across the country, 23 area hospitals achieved Medal of Honor status (see sidebar).

We're proud of the number of hospitals in our service area that earned this award, and of how our collaborative effort has such a meaningful impact on the lives of donor families and recipients alike, said Tom Mone, CEO of OneLegacy. We will continue to focus our effort on hospitals, transplant centers and the Donate Life California Organ & Tissue Donor Registry as we work toward our ultimate goal of ending the wait for all people awaiting organ transplants.

Throughout the seven-county area, deceased donation has increased 18% in the first nine months this year, and OneLegacy is headed for its seventh consecutive year of all-time highs in organ donors and organs recovered for life-saving transplant. ☺

Ambassadors of the Year Named

OneLegacy honored five volunteers as Ambassadors of the Year at the 2006 OneLegacy Ambassadors Fiesta on September 17 at Griffith Park.

Since the Ambassadors program launched in February 2003, more than 450 donor family members, transplant recipients and others touched by donation have attended a one-day training workshop to prepare them for interacting with the community. The program now offers advanced workshops to Ambassadors interested in developing their presentation skills and taking on greater responsibility. There is also a special Embajadores de OneLegacy program specifically designed for Spanish-speaking volunteers.

Ambassadors of the Year were named in five categories, one for each role. Ambassadors are encouraged to play in our community: Media Representative (Edith Gonzalez, at top right with OneLegacy communications director Bryan Stewart), Event Staff (Daniel Ronco, at bottom right with OneLegacy volunteer and community events coordinator Stephanie Schmitz), Storyteller (Bob Mummey), Representative (Marianne O Quinn), and Community Scout (Phil Arst).

In addition, 20 Applause certificates were awarded to Ambassadors who made significant contributions to the community during the previous year. ☺

AND OUR FAMILY CIRCLE ROSE DEDICATION PROGRAM CONTRIBUTORS

Run, Walk...

For the Donate Life Run/Walk, 2006 will always be remembered as the year of the donor family. Thanks to the efforts of OneLegacy's Family Services staff, more than 800 donor family members were inspired to walk in honor of their loved ones. The images of donors on hundreds of T-shirts inspired the record 4,000 participants in the April event. Adding even more meaning to the event was the debut of the Circle of Life Garden, an elegant display of 30 signs with photos of and personal messages to donors and recipients alike. With support from Sav-on Drugs, St. Joseph Hospital and a host of other sponsors, the fourth annual Donate Life Run/Walk raised approximately $70,000 which will fund media campaigns to promote enrollment in the Donate Life California Organ & Tissue Donor Registry. (See article on Page 1.)

(1) The family of Martha Macias shows their pride at walking in her honor. (2) Barbara Facio, mother of organ donor Andrew Ortiz, releases a bird as the recipient of Andrew's heart, Fred Phillips (left), looks on. (3) The Circle of Life Garden, with approximately 30 memorial signs at the finish line, was a new feature this year. (4) "Team Ted" made another strong showing in support of lung recipient Ted Askier. (5) Victor Constantino spoke eloquently of his father Hugo, who died awaiting a lung transplant and whose memory inspired more than 2,300 friends and Sav-on Drugs colleagues to register with Donate Life California. (6) Donate Life Run/Walk co-founder and OneLegacy community partnerships coordinator Kathleen Hostert inspires the crowd as her husband, co-founder Craig, looks on. (7) OneLegacy's Asian community development coordinator Sabrina Ho (kneeling in black jacket) brought an enthusiastic Asian community contingent. (8) Participating in a pre-race bird release are kidney donor Tony Huy; Raegan Pratt, recipient of his kidney; and Dr. Ervin Ruzics, their St. Joseph Hospital transplant surgeon. (9) Excitement builds at the starting line. (10) A class of Los Angeles Police Department cadets participates in formation for the duration of the event. (Photos by Tony Kawashima)

...and Remember

OneLegacy's annual "Fields of Gold" Donor Remembrance Ceremonies are a March tradition. This year, 115 organ and tissue donor families attended ceremonies at UCLA, Loma Linda University, the Hyatt Regency Long Beach and the Doubletree Bakersfield. Musical performances, donor family and recipient speakers, and a personal video tribute left families feeling close to their loved ones and appreciated for their decisions to donate life.

(1) In Long Beach, the family of Marvin Martinez enjoys participating the traditional ceremony-closing release of birds. (2) In Bakersfield, Patti Rivetti poses with the recipient of her husband Dennis's heart, Mark Sabin, who proudly holds his son Matthew. (3) At Loma Linda University, Dr. Joseph Cohen (left), the Chief Forensic Pathologist for the Riverside County Sheriff/Coroner, receives the OneLegacy Life Bridge Award from hospital services coordinator Mike Thomas. (4) The Bakersfield ceremony concludes with a balloon release to Terry Harrington's rendition of "Over The Rainbow." Harrington, a heart recipient, is the "voice" of Lisa Simpson's saxophone on "The Simpsons".

In Memory of Craig Shmorhun

A beloved member of our OneLegacy family, Craig Shmorhun, died in his sleep yesterday. Craig was a very active Per Diem Procurement Transplant Coordinator in our Redlands office as well as a nurse at Desert Regional Medical Center, where our staff worked with him in our shared effort to help donor families. Craig's caring, presence and smile will be greatly missed. Craig leaves behind a wife and three children who we have in our hearts and prayers.

Tissue Manuals Delivered to Hospitals

OneLegacy Hospital Services is currently distributing a Tissue Donor Manual to all hospital units. The binder contains a treasure trove of tools and information to guide the donor management and referral process, including Preliminary Screening Questions; Identification, Management and Surgical Recovery of the Tissue Donor; JCAHO Requirements and Regulations; HIPPA Regulations; and Key Contacts at OneLegacy.

For information, please contact Clinique Burrell in Hospital Services, 213-229-5634 or cburrell@onelegacy.org.

NATCO Grant Awarded

In August, OneLegacy received the NATCO Grant for Research for 2006 for the study, Increasing Organs per Donor: Use of the USCOM Non-Invasive Cardiac Output Machine to Guide Donor Management. Congratulations to primary investigator Stephanie Collazo (above, with Marilyn Bartucci, NATCO Research Committee Co-Chair), clinical education specialist, and Dr. Mudit Mathur of Loma Linda University Medical Center, our project partner.

DESIGNATION: National Goal 100 Million

totaling approximately 60 million registered organ donors. The Donor Designation Collaborative seeks to add another 40 million registered donors over the next 18 months, with the potential to honor the generous donation wishes of an additional 400,000 Americans just in the next couple of years.

This national collaborative effort was launched in New Orleans, La. on October 18, 2006 and featured teams representing 44 states, Puerto Rico, the District of Columbia and Ontario, Canada. These teams — consisting of representatives from organ and tissue recovery agencies, motor vehicle departments, transplant centers, eye and tissue banks, state health departments, civic groups and corporate partners — will lead efforts to found new effective donor registries in states that do not currently operate a registry; improve the effectiveness of existing donor registries; and work diligently to promote these registries and secure millions of additional donor registrations.

As someone who waited 25 months for a double-lung transplant, I see this as the type of groundbreaking work that gives hope to those waiting, said Trey Schwab, outreach coordinator for UW Health OPO in Madison, Wis. and vice president of the Wisconsin Coalition on Donation. The Donor Designation Collaborative is a powerful way to increase the number of donor registrations in each state. The real power of this initiative comes in helping people understand that when they have the opportunity to sign up on a state donor registry, they have the power to save the lives of eight people and touch many more through eye and tissue donation, and in helping states make the signup process as easy as possible for their residents. 🌀 to the 3,500 per week prior to the partnership.

DMV: 25,000 Per Week Signing Up to Donate Life

We know that the generosity of Californians knows no bounds, and with 23 million licensed drivers on the road in the state, DMV employees stand ready to help increase this list of potential life-savers from thousands to millions, said DMV Director George Valverde.

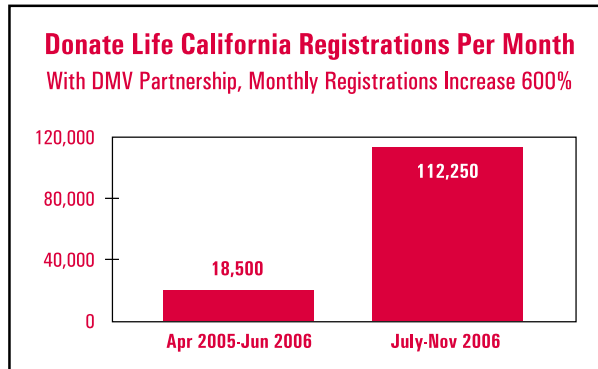

Departments of motor vehicles play a key role in the success of state donor registries nationwide, said Bryan Stewart, director of communications with OneLegacy. Some states, including Utah, Virginia, Indiana and Colorado, have signed up more than 60 percent of their licensed drivers, allowing donation cases to proceed smoothly and with greater speed, saving precious time.

Donate Life California is a nonprofit, state-authorized organ and tissue donor registry, administered by California's four nonprofit, federally designated organ procurement organizations. As a state-authorized public service, the registry assures that all personal information is kept confidential and stored in a secure database, accessible only to authorized organ and tissue recovery personnel.

Before the creation of the registry, there was no official list of designated organ and tissue donors. The pink donor dot and signed donor card voluntarily carried by drivers were meant to serve as an indication of someone's intent to donate. But signed cards are often unavailable at the time a family is approached about the opportunity to donate, and the dot alone does not grant legal consent for donation.

With the partnership between DMV and Donate Life California, donor information will be transmitted electronically directly from DMV to Donate Life California's online registry. The driver's decision acts as an advanced directive for organ and tissue donation, and for drivers 18 and older, it does not require the consent of any other person. (The parent or legal guardian must give consent for registrants under 18.) Those who currently have a pink donor dot on their licenses but are not near their renewal date are asked to join the online registry directly. At the time of license renewal, a Yes on the DMV form results in the pink donor dot being printed directly onto the licenses. Those who sign up can opt out, alter personal information or change donation preferences anytime through the online Donate Life California Registry. For more information or to sign up online, visit www.donateLIFeCalifornia.org or www.doneVIDAcalifornia.org.

FRANKIE: I asked him, “What would you do? What should I do?”

As we started kindergarten, Frankie demonstrated that he was very smart and gifted. He was very popular and quickly made friends with everyone, and I do mean everyone: Belle, Thomas, Ms. Mohan, the parents, the cafeteria staff, the janitor. He received many awards and recognitions throughout his school years. Frankie was a social butterfly, as I was told many times, in my parent conferences.

On March 6, 2005, he woke up and went to the park to watch the Sunday league baseball game. We left the park and headed home. He showered and had lunch and went out to play catch with his dad. He complained of a headache, and it was unlike him to complain. I asked him to lie down and he began to say it really hurts. So I suggested going to the hospital and he said, Yeah let's go. That was unlike him too, and I began to worry.

We drove off and as soon as we got onto the freeway he stopped breathing. I performed CPR and his dad called 911. The paramedics met us, took over performing CPR and transported him to the hospital. The doctors at the hospital informed us he had internal bleeding and needed to be transferred to another hospital. We arrived at Cedars-Sinai and immediately he was placed in surgery. He survived the surgery, but was in a coma.

Day in and day out, we were there by his side, hoping for a miracle, and praying. There was nothing more to do but pray. On March 9, we were informed by eight different neurosurgeons that there was nothing more they could do. Frankie was simply no longer responding. Several conversations with different doctors, and all leading to the same conclusion, one that no one ever wants to hear.

We sat next to Frankie's bed, hoping for a miracle, even though we were told he was brain-dead. A representative from OneLegacy walked in alongside Frankie's nurse Pam. He asked if we were interested in giving the gift of life. In the moment I had no other choice but to wish this was not happening to me, hoping this was simply a nightmare. The reality was that we were being asked to make a decision that could change a person's life for the better. I didn't ask anyone but Frankie. I asked him, What would you do? What should I do? My response was immediate: Yes.

On March 11th, while at the cemetery planning his services, I was advised that Frankie had saved the lives of five children. With mixed emotions I was happy for the children and their families.

Of the five children, I have met one of his recipients. Patty received Frankie's bowel. She's an extraordinary little girl who is Frankie's age, and coincidentally attended the same school as Frankie. Patty and her family wrote to me shortly after my loss and her recovery. In Patricia's (Patty's mother) letter, she thanked me for giving Patty a chance to live a new and better life. In her letter, she explained that after receiving the transplant, Patty was able to eat for the first time in nine years and was learning the simple things like how to chew and swallow.

In that moment, reading the letter, I knew the decision that was made was the biggest decision I will ever have to make and am thankful for the guidance Cedars-Sinai and OneLegacy gave me to help me make the correct decision. Patty and her family have welcomed my family and me as one of their own. They have been a great help in our journey.

What I wouldn't do to have one more month, day, or even a minute with my baby boy. But knowing that these children have been able to be hugged, and kissed by their families for even just one more day has been something that is gratifying. 🌹

DONATE LIFE ROCKS!

Musicians Alex Band (left) and Josh Kelley highlighted August's "Donate Life Rocks" event at Hard Rock Cafe Los Angeles. Band, formerly of The Calling, wowed the crowd with his rendition "Wherever You Will Go", which was selected as the official song for the 2007 Donate Life Rose Parade Float, Giving From The Heart.
